PROFESSIONAL OVERVIEW

Caleb Fetner is a Managing Consultant with more than five years of professional experience in environmental consulting. He has assisted his clients with developing effective permit strategies in multiple programs including State Implementation Plan (SIP) construction permitting for Part 70 major and minor sources, and major stationary source New Source Review (NSR). As part of his experience with major stationary source NSR, Caleb has developed applications for Prevention of Significant Deterioration (PSD) permits and supported clients with Plantwide Applicability Limit (PAL) permits. Caleb has experience with air dispersion modeling with AERMOD in support of projects in several different industries.

Caleb also assists his clients with compliance reporting for various State and Federal regulations. He has extensive experience developing reports for Greenhouse Gas (GHG), Toxic Release Inventory (TRI), annual emissions inventories, waste reporting (including hazardous and non-hazardous), post-project emissions tracking, and semi-annual and annual compliance reporting.

Outside of air quality, Caleb has experience with Chemical Facility Anti-Terrorism Standards (CFATS), Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act (CERCLA) continuous release evaluations and reports, and Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-Know Act (EPCRA) Tier II reports.

Caleb supports clients in many different states across a wide variety of industries from his home office in Newnan, GA. He has air quality permitting and/or compliance experience in Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Kentucky, New Jersey, Michigan, Mississippi, Louisiana, South Carolina, and California, in multiple sectors, including pulp and paper, chemical manufacturing, wood products, textile manufacturing, secondary aluminum, and more.
