Expanding Strategic Environmental, Engineering, and Compliance Services

[Kimberton, PA] — February 11, 2026 — ALL4 LLC (ALL4) is pleased to announce the acquisition of Tora Consulting LLC (Tora), a strategic environmental and engineering consulting firm based in Columbia, South Carolina. The addition of Tora’s team and their expertise further expands ALL4’s presence and expertise across the United States.

Tora Consulting provides tailored environmental compliance, air quality, permitting, and engineering advisory services to clients across a broad spectrum of industries, including building materials, energy and natural resources, aerospace and technology, industrial and manufacturing, and infrastructure and logistics. With 15 experienced environmental professionals across nine states, Tora has built a nationally distributed team recognized for its deep technical expertise in air dispersion modeling, air quality permitting and compliance, environmental management systems, multimedia permitting, stormwater and wastewater, sustainability (also known as ESG support), and waste, tanks, chemical management, and regulatory strategy.

Founded in 2018 by Brandon Mogan, PE, Tora was built to deliver more than technical answers — providing strategic business insights that help clients mitigate risk, streamline operations, and enhance regulatory flexibility. Mr. Mogan has more than 20 years of experience in environmental consulting, particularly in air quality and environmental management, having led multi-disciplinary project teams through complex regulatory and operational challenges.

“We are excited to welcome the Tora team to the ALL4 community and to broaden our national technical expertise and provide additional regional support across the east coast and mid-west,” said Bill Straub, CEO of ALL4. “Tora’s strategic approach to environmental and engineering challenges, combined with their strong technical reputation and client-centric service model, strengthens our ability to support clients across diverse industries with high-value solutions delivered by technically excellent consultants.”

“We are thrilled to join ALL4, which will allow us to bring expanded expertise and resources to our clients while enhancing career growth opportunities for our team,” said Brandon Mogan, President of Tora Consulting. “This partnership aligns with our mission of creating long-term value for clients by integrating strategic advisory and regulatory compliance support throughout the project lifecycle.”

Through this acquisition, ALL4 enhances its strategic consulting portfolio — particularly in air quality, permitting, and compliance — while Tora gains access to ALL4’s national platform and their expanded environmental, health, safety, sustainability, and digital services. Tora will continue to serve its existing clients while integrating with ALL4’s broader network of technical experts.

This marks another milestone in ALL4’s growth strategy and commitment to delivering a comprehensive suite of consulting services to the global regulated community. With the addition of Tora Consulting, ALL4 continues to expand its team of dedicated professionals supporting sustainable and compliant project outcomes.
